

Ike Gives Conflict Opinion

Says Differences Should Be Studied In Spirit of Honest Search for Truth

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today he would be frightened indeed if, in these times, there were not good, strong arguments among America's armed services.

The President told a news conference, however, that all differences should be studied in a spirit of honest search for the truth, and not with any purpose in mind of just seeing whether an inter-service fight can be promoted.

A great many of the questions put to Eisenhower dealt with the rivalry among the services which came to light last weekend.

Secretary of Defense Wilson yesterday pictured the President as "a bit unhappy" about the disputes.

At the outset of his news conference Eisenhower was asked for his view of the situation.

He noted that he is commander-in-chief, as well as President, and said no important matter dealing with the armed services comes up that does not concern him.

Alluding to the interservice differences over the role to be played by the various branches, Eisenhower said it is necessary to get the matter in proper perspective.

In these days of new weapons, Eisenhower said, there is constant change and fluidity, and military doctrines that were sacrosanct in the past now are being deserted.

It was then he said that if there were not good, strong arguments among the armed services, he would be frightened indeed.

Later on, Eisenhower said with great emphasis that the strength of America is not found alone in bombs or in guided missiles. It is instead, he added, a combination of many things, such as balancing the budget.

It is one, integrated problem, he declared, and not a matter of little bits and pieces scattered all over the world.

In response to other questions, Eisenhower said that Russia's announced plans to cut its military forces by 1,200,000 men will be very warmly welcomed by the West if actually carried out.

He added, however, that the Russian announcement needs careful study and careful watching to find out what it may amount to.

Eisenhower indicated he feels the announced cut is not too significant in terms of reducing Soviet military power. He said the Soviet Union still would have 115 ground divisions, great air power, and naval strength.

Michael Giokaris

Mike Giokaris Is Made Gas Dept. Head

Position Is Created Because of Recent Expansion by MPS

Missouri Public Service Co. announced today that Michael D. "Mike" Giokaris, Sedalia gas engineer, has been promoted to the position of gas superintendent of the company. This is a new position made necessary by the company's recent acquisition of 13 new towns in north central Missouri to be served with natural gas. With these, the company will then serve natural gas to a total of 26 communities.

Giokaris will handle his new duties for the present from Sedalia, where he will be close to the company's new gas project, and where he will assist in "breaking in" his successor at Sedalia. He will move to the company's general office area some time early next year. In his new duties he will report directly to Earl Dryer, general superintendent of the company.

A registered professional engineer in the state of Missouri, "Mike" is unmarried, and lives in Sedalia with his mother, Mrs. K. D. Giokaris and his sisters, Georgia and Helen.

He began his work in the utility field with City Light and Traction Co., Sedalia, on Jan. 15, 1941, as cadet engineer. He went into the military service on Aug. 25, 1941, as a second lieutenant of field artillery in the United States army and spent eight months in the European theater, participating in three major campaigns.

During that time, he was advanced from second lieutenant to major, the commission he is now (Please turn to Page 6, Col. 3)

Issues Complete Denial

Truman Disclaims Statements About Anzio-Salerno Fight; Newsmen Are Firm

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — Harry S. Truman disclaimed today the comments attributed to him concerning the Anzio-Salerno beachhead — and added he's embarrassed about the whole affair.

Reporters accompanying Truman on his tour through Italy quoted him yesterday as saying the two World War II landings were unnecessary "and planned by some squirrel-headed general," not named.

These developments followed: 1. The controversy over the landings, previously criticized in Congress and elsewhere, took on new life. Gen. Mark W. Clark, 5th Army commander in the landings, said he had just followed orders. A British commander accused Truman of talking nonsense.

2. Truman's secretary said the former president made "a complete denial" of the quotations attributed to him yesterday. Fred Zusy, AP correspondent who filed yesterday's story, said Truman's comment "was reported exactly as he said it." A reporter for the United Press filed a similar story, and also stood by it today.

3. President Eisenhower said he and his wartime staff did not favor carrying out the Anzio beach landing exactly as it was done, but that he does not think it can be called a failure. He said it would be a long story to tell who planned the operation.

4. Truman himself spoke to the reporters of three major news services, several hours after his secretary had issued the denial. He was asked to comment on "the complete denial."

"I would make no comment like that," said Truman, referring to the quotations attributed to him.

"I had been listening to the conversation of several people who had been there. I am sorry about it."

"But it's a very embarrassing situation and I hope you'll clear it up."

Zusy, a Milwaukee native who has been a journalist since 1937 and an AP foreign correspondent for seven years, said:

"My quotes were copied while the President was talking to me and are precisely as recorded. Both in my memory and in the notes written down word by word as he spoke the quotes are as reported."

Connolly Received Checks—

Government Introduces Oil Royalty Evidence in Trial

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Evidence that Atty. Harry I. Schwimmer sent an oil royalty transfer to T. Lamar Caudle and forwarded royalty checks to Matthew J. Connolly has been introduced at the tax-fixing trial of the three men.

The government contends Schwimmer, attorney for tax evader Irving Sachs, gave the oil royalties to Caudle and Connolly, both former high officials in the Truman administration, for trying to avert prosecution of Sachs.

Caudle is a former head of the Justice Department's Tax Division and Connolly was White House appointments secretary under Truman. The three are charged with conspiring to defraud the government by fixing the Sachs case.

A secretary in Schwimmer's Kansas City office, Mrs. Gabriela K. Robb, yesterday identified an Aug. 4, 1950, letter from Schwimmer to Caudle which said:

"Inclosed find transfer order on your share of royalty we have purchased."

The letter said the royalty should pay close to $50 a month "for a number of years."

The letter was admitted into evidence over objections by Schwimmer's attorney. Chief prosecutor Wyllys S. Newcomb told the court in resisting the objection that Caudle turned the letter over to federal agents from his files.

Mrs. Robb testified royalty checks for Connolly were received at Schwimmer's office, taken out of the original envelopes, placed in fresh envelopes and forwarded to Connolly's home.

Also introduced was evidence that Caudle opposed criminal prosecution of Sachs, an epileptic.

Caudle, in a memorandum to a Justice Department attorney, said Sachs "is a very sick man" and Caudle would not assume responsibility for bringing him to trial.

Sachs pleaded guilty to tax evasion in 1951 and paid a $40,000 fine but escaped a prison term on health grounds.

CMSC Regents Board Elects New President

Dr. Warren Lovinger Now Heads Teachers School, South Dakota

The Board of Regents of Central Missouri State College at Warrensburg today announced the appointment of Dr. Warren C. Lovinger as president of the college effective July 1.

Dr. Lovinger, now president of Northern State Teachers College, Aberdeen, S. D., succeeds Dr. George W. Diemer, president at Warrensburg since 1937, who is retiring. Dr. Diemer has been named president emeritus of the college. He is building a new home in Kansas City where he plans to reside upon retiring.

Formal inauguration ceremonies for the new president, who will be the tenth in the state college history, are being planned by the regents for sometime in the fall.

Dr. Lovinger, who is 41, one of the youngest ever to assume the presidency at Warrensburg, will be the tenth president since the school was founded in 1871.

A native of Montana Dr. Lovinger has been president at Northern State Teachers College since 1951. He received his bachelor and master's degree at Montana State University and his doctorate from Columbia University Teachers College, New York.

JC's Sponsor Driving Test For Teenagers

Teenage Road-e-o Winner Will Go To State Contest

The Sedalia Jaycees will sponsor a Teenage Road-e-o here on June 6. The Road-e-o is a driving contest for any teenage boy or girl with a driver's license and who will not have reached 20 years of age by August 10.

Sponsored on a national basis by the 2,800 Jaycee chapters across the nation and in Hawaii, it is a program designed to give the nation's young motorists an opportunity to prove and improve their driving habits and to stimulate community activities in bigger and better high school driver education programs.

The winner of the local contest will go to the state contest in Rolla in mid-June. State winners are then flown to Washington, D. C., for the finals to be held in August.

National winners will be offered scholarships totaling $3,000 and an all-expense trip to Washington, D. C., for the winner of each state contest.

Contestants in the Teenage Road-e-o will be given a written test on driving knowledge and a performance test in four obstacle-type exercises on the community level. On the state level, a road check for in-traffic performance will be added. National contestants will be given a written test, performance, driving attitude, psychophysical examination and a personal interview.

The national Jaycee Teenage Road-e-o is made possible through co-sponsorship with the Liberty Mutual Insurance Co., the American Trucking Association and the Chrysler Corp.

Entry deadline for Sedalia is June 4 and application blanks are available at the Chamber of Commerce office. Requirements for the Road-e-o are a driver's license or permit and a clean record of no moving traffic violations in the last six months.

Prizes will be awarded on a local level to the first, second and third place winners.

Local Clergyman Becomes Dean Of Cathedral

The Rev. Ned Cole, rector of Grace Episcopal Church in Jefferson City since 1939, has been appointed as dean of Christ Church Cathedral, St. Louis. He is a native of California, Mo., and is well-known in Sedalia church circles.

He will assume his new position Sept. 1, succeeding the Very Rev. Sidney E. Sweet, who will retire that day after serving as dean at the cathedral for 25 years.

Dean-elect Cole, 39, was elected by the Cathedral Chapter upon nomination by Bishop Arthur C. Lichtenberger. He is a graduate of Westminster College, Fulton, and the Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, Mass.

His first year in the ministry was spent at Calvary Church, Columbia. Active in the Missouri Council of Churches and the Episcopal Diocese of Missouri, he served as chairman of the Missouri delegation to the Episcopal Church general convention in Honolulu last year.

He and his wife, the former Martha Dunlap of Jefferson City, have two children.

Speck to CAP Board—

Air Force Chief Believes Chances Slight for Attack

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Nathan F. Twining — underlining the range striking power — said today he believes chances are "slight" for an air attack on the United States.

However, Twining, Air Force chief of staff, said the Russian air force's long-range attack fleet is "becoming an increasing menace" and that "regardless of how strong our deterrent force, we can never be sure that a potential enemy will not attack."

In a speech prepared for the Civil Air Patrol's National Board, Twining made no mention of the interservice rivalry which mushroomed to the surface over the weekend.

Two Senate subcommittees are preparing to investigate the service quarrel which Secretary of Defense Wilson reported yesterday has made President Eisenhower "a bit unhappy."

Wilson, who has been seeking to minimize the importance of the Army-Air Force-Navy squabbling, may have been warning that he has called "eager beaver" officers when he told newsmen yesterday:

"We'll see who sticks their head up next. I think it might be a little dangerous."

In New York yesterday, Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, chief of naval operations, said in a talk with reporters that the Joint Chiefs are basically "pretty much in agreement."

"I think the Air Force and the Army are commencing to realize the importance of naval power in their own operations," Burke said.

"We also realize the importance of the Army and the Air Force."

Last weekend, Army sources gave out documents deploring what they contended was over-emphasis on air power. Some Air Force officers have sought to downrate the Army's Nike anti-aircraft guided missile. And the Navy and Air Force have been feuding over whether Navy carriers and aircraft have any place in strategic bombing operations.

Yesterday, Sen. Symington (D-Mo.), a former Air Force secretary in the Truman administration, said Congress may have to step in and settle the issue of which armed services will fulfill what defense missions.

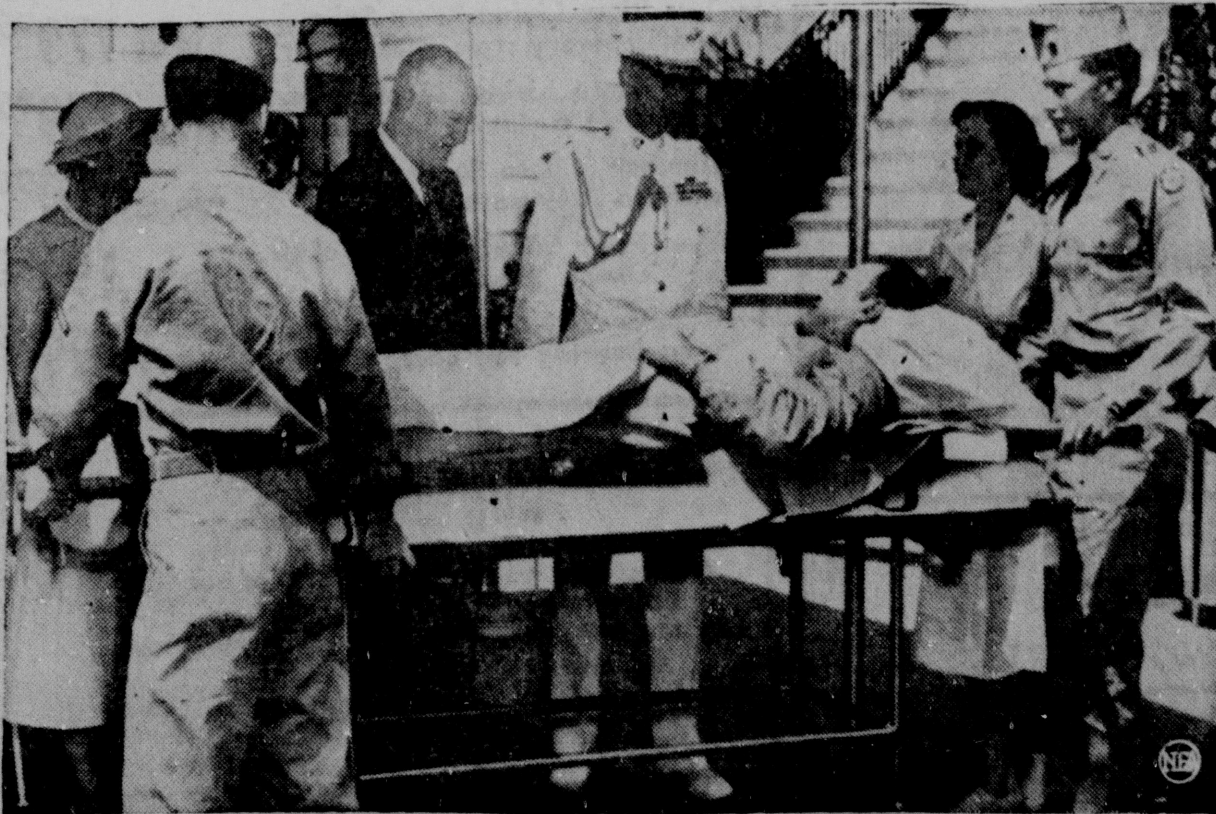

In his speech to the Civil Air Patrol board, Twining said:

"The deterrent effect of our long-range striking power has been sufficient to prevent aggression. Yet regardless of how strong our deterrent force, we can never be sure that a potential enemy will not attack."

Twining said the Air Force is building radar detection lines across the northernmost part of this hemisphere because "we are not willing to bet everything that the deterrent will deter."

He said the United States faces the "ever present possibility of an air attack" but that he now feels "the chances of his are slight and we are working to make them even less."

It Junks Most Of Provisions Ike Disliked

It Gives Him Major Item He Requested; Soil Bank Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional action was completed today on a farm bill designed to overcome objections which drew a veto for a broader measure April 16. The House quickly passed the compromise measure which the Senate approved yesterday. It was written by a conference committee after the two branches had passed separate bills.

The new bill, expected to be approved by President Eisenhower, was described by Rep. Poage (D-Tex.), its floor manager, as "not the second best farm bill we have had before us this year" but "probably the third or fourth best, but the only one which seems to have a chance to become law."

Poage accused the Eisenhower administration of "a lack of understanding" of the farm problem. He used most of the one hour allowed for discussion of the compromise measure.

The new bill junked almost all of the provisions which the President objected to in last month's measure and gave him the major item he requested—a $1,200,000,000 soil bank program to pay farmers for taking surplus land out of production.

Rep. Heseltun (R-Mass.) opposed the compromise on the ground it neglected "the legitimate interest of important segments of agriculture, particularly in the Northeast, and ignores almost completely the interests of consumers and general taxpayers."

It is the third time the House has been called on to vote on broad new farm legislation in this Congress.

Last year, it passed a bill to junk the administration's flexible price support program and reinstate rigid supports. The Senate loaded that bill with a score or more additional features, most of which the House accepted. When Eisenhower vetoed it, the House upheld his action.

The present bill abandons most of the provisions Eisenhower termed objectionable in the earlier one. It includes the key feature of his 1956 farm program—a $1,200,000,000 soil bank to pay farmers subsidies for taking crop land out of production in the hope of reducing surpluses.

Both the Senate and the House refused to give him authority he asked, when he vetoed the previous bill, to pay farmers this year up to 500 million dollars for promising to put land in the soil bank in 1957.

The present bill was agreed to yesterday by Senate-House conferees assigned to resolve differences in separate versions approved by the two branches.

Special Unit Seeks to Join Missile, Atom

WHITE SANDS PROVING GROUND. N. M. (AP)—Army Ordnance experts have revealed the existence in the southern New Mexico desert of a military organization designed to wed an atomic warhead to a guided missile.

The disclosure came as the Army demonstrated its operational guided missiles before 115 newsmen here.

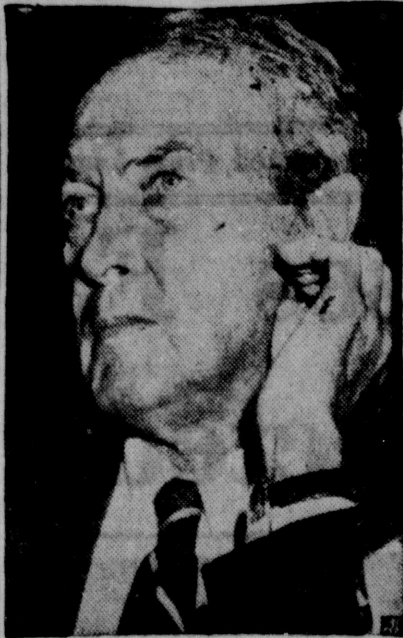

A briefing officer said there is a special weapons section of the Army Ordnance Department at White Sands. The mission of this section, he said, is to determine the capability of the various operational rockets to carry atomic warheads.

The Army did not disclose whether any of the operational missiles are equipped with atomic warheads. It insisted the tests are solely for engineering and field-test purposes, although involving operational models.

The demonstration of several types of rockets was staged as a nationwide controversy continued over the military arm's guided missile program.

Five of the Army's operational rockets—or as Army spokesmen prefer to call them, weapons—were fired.

Interest in the demonstration, planned long before the current guided missile controversy started making headlines, was centered in the Nike. The Nike has been a focus of controversy between the Army and Air Force in recent days. It is a ground-to-air missile. The range has not been stated publicly.

Foreign Office Holds Comment on Filipino Claim to Islands

MANILA (AP)—The Philippine Foreign Office withheld comment today on Nationalist China's claim to an uninhabited island empire which a Filipino civilian has staked out as his "by virtue of discovery and occupancy."

Chinese Ambassador Chen Chai-mai protested the claim of Tomas Cloma, who explored the islands in the South China Sea in March.

Chen said in a note the Formosa government considers the claim an infringement on Chinese territorial rights.

Despite the protest, the Foreign Office went ahead with plans for a high-level huddle Friday to consider the merits of Cloma's claim.

Chinese Communists Reported Building Island Fortifications

HONG KONG (AP)—The Chinese Communists are reported building fortifications on a small group of islands in the Paracel chain in the South China Sea.

The Paracels are an extensive group of low coral islands and reefs about 150 miles southeast of Communist-held Hainan Island.

Military intelligence sources said recent reports indicate the Chinese Reds are building two-story stone structures on the island of Woody, center of the group. They said the Communists also were reported stepping up sea activities around the island cluster, used primarily in the past as a weather reporting station.

The reports said an increased number of small Communist naval craft was operating in the area, but gave no estimate of the number.

Reports as long ago as 1952 said the Chinese Reds planned to use the Paracels as a naval base in conjunction with the natural harbor of Yulin, on the southern tip of Hainan.

Lingerie Look Keynotes Graduation Dress

Most girls graduating this June will pick fashions that can serve in their wardrobes when school is over. This year, the graduate can stick to her own clothes style in choosing both fabric and cut. We show three dresses that differ in cut, fabric and effect. Yet all three conform to most graduation requirements. Tailored girl (left) gets classic shirtwaist style in white eyelet-embroidered

By GAILE DUGAS
NEW YORK — (NEA) — The lingerie look typifies this year's white graduation dress.

The white dress is the big dress for summer on all fashion levels. It is sophisticated or sleek or frilly. For the gal who's graduating from high school, it's the ideal way to pad her wardrobe without denting the family budget.

If she likes the lingerie look, she'll find lots of frilly dresses: tiny lace ruffles, ribbon beading, fluffy petticoats and sheer fabrics with organdie a favorite. The full-skirted sheer cotton organdie dress often gets pastel embroidery both in hemline bands and all-over patterns. Most of these dresses have high or shallow scooped necklines and little sleeves.

The girl who likes her dresses sleek, and bordering on the sophisticated can pick the white sheath in pique, probably with a sheer overskirt that is removable. She may favor the long torso line, also in pique, in a dress devoid of frills and dependent on cut for its effect.

Because there is so much to choose from in graduation fashions this year, most gals will have no difficulty in picking dresses they like that also conform to school regulations.

And when the big day is over, there's an extra dress in the closet for dressy wear all summer long.

Economists Are Disagreed On Outlook

NEW YORK (AP)—If the tug of war between economic forces today has you baffled, relax. The experts can't make up their minds which way it's going, either.

Government economists, purchasing agents for industry, analysts for financial houses appear agreed on one thing, however. By summer the direction the economy is taking should be a lot clearer, at least.

The President's top economic adviser, Dr. Arthur Burns, notes "divergent movements" going on beneath the surface of generally good times. He finds a "cost-price squeeze" at work in farming, home building, and the auto and farm equipment industries.

Burns admits the possibility of new inflation coming, but thinks it isn't clear yet whether the industrial price hikes of late can be passed along to consumers. He believes it more likely that the pressure of rising wages on prices can be held down by increasing the output per unit of labor. And intense retail competition should ward off much of the inflation threat for the consumer.

More directly concerned with industrial prices, with new orders and with maintaining the most favorable level of inventories are the members of the National Assn. of Purchasing Agents. They report that the price spiral appears to be slowing up now.

But as for business in general they are less optimistic. A poll of the members of the association shows that business activity has leveled off even more this month. And they have to go back to early 1954 to find a time when so many kinds of businesses were reporting falling production and a slump in new orders.

With this background for their annual meeting in Cleveland, the purchasing agents appear to accept the finding of the economists addressing them that the chances for another broad upturn in the economy very soon aren't spectacular. They think a number of industries will have to work out their present difficulties first and how long that will take they just don't predict.

The National Federation of Financial Analysts Societies, meeting in Boston, heard the President's economic adviser warn that

Cooler Weather Seen for Most Of Midwest Area

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The brief spell of summerlike weather in most of the Midwest appeared ended today.

Cool air from Canada spread into the plains states and across north central areas in the wake of showers and severe thunderstorms. The chilly air dipped southward into Kansas and eastward across the Great Lakes region.

Rapid changes in temperature were reported in some sections. Chicago, after sweltering in 92 degree heat yesterday, cooled off after a brief shower last night. Temperatures dropped 35 degrees in eight hours, to an early morning low of 48.

Readings were in the 40s in Minnesota and Wisconsin and in the low 30s in extreme northern sections of the Midwest.

Readings were above normal in most other parts of the country but cooler weather appeared in prospect for the Northeast section.

The showers and thunderstorms along the leading edge of the cooler air yesterday and last night extended in a belt from eastern Wyoming eastward across Illinois and into Ohio.

Hail stones reported by the Weather Bureau as large as golf balls pelted the Springfield, Ill., area.

European Royalty Makes First Visit

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Prince Franz Josef von Liechtenstein and Princess Gina of the tiny European principality of Liechtenstein have arrived here on their first visit to America.

The 45-year-old prince said that, as a member of the International Olympics Committee, he is interested in seeing the Memorial Coliseum here—scene of the 1932 Olympic games. He said he also hopes to visit Squaw Valley in northern California, where the 1960 winter Olympics are scheduled.

The present is a time of testing in the nation's markets and that "developments in prices, inventories and retail trade will bear careful watching in coming weeks and months."

Teacher Says Eggheads Are Valuable

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—America "is afraid of death of eggheads," said Dr. Frank C. Baxter. "Yet behind all science, all knowledge are eggheads," contended Baxter, University of Southern California professor whose television showmanship won him a 1956 Peabody Award for his discourses on Shakespeare.

"Eggheads—I hate the word—are the people who set the pace," Baxter told a press conference last night before addressing the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

"We are talking, I assume, of the socially valuable intelligent people, not the superficial intellectuals."

"We are losing something precious in not knowing how to find our leadership potential."

"We are bankrupt in world leadership today. You can see in Washington that policy is made day by day."

Winston Churchill was a leader of world stature, Baxter said, "but now Churchill is through."

Under present methods of mass education, he said, "some of the waste of human stuff is inexcusable."

"It is wrong that the superior student with rich capabilities should be denied the chance to unfold to the limits of his powers."

"It is a sin that the mediocre and the unpotential should set the pace for their betters."

"One wonders whether there should not be some point in public education where those unable, uninterested and unwilling to go further should be shunted off into trade schools—or even (if they have obtained a bare minimum of education) into doing that humble work in the world that must be done by somebody."

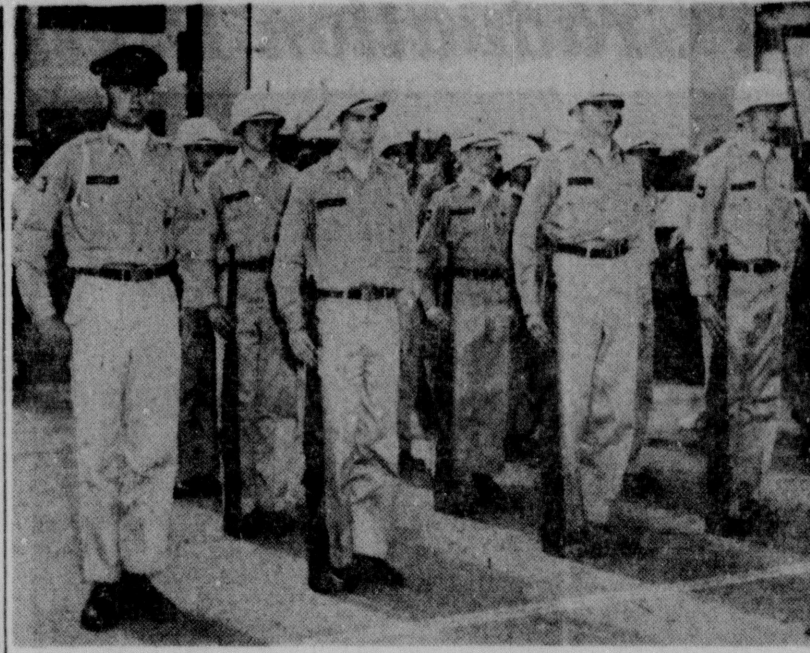

"If a boy is a born truck driver, why don't we start him driving a truck."

"The tragedy is that men are not born equal. There are some who were out of step when the egg was fertilized."

In metropolitan high schools, particularly, he said, there are small hard cores of trouble makers who hold down the level of all because so much teacher time is consumed in just discipline.

"It isn't worth it, keeping these mugs on," he said.

He said the award is in honor of DeMille's contributions in the international field, particularly his worldwide influence through motion pictures.

Owl Breaks Up Picnic

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—An irate, dive-bombing owl broke up a picnic on Chickamauga Lake.

Harold Dedman, an insurance adjuster, said he, his wife, their two children and another couple received head scratches when the owl slammed into them repeatedly while they were having a picnic on the lake shore.

Dedman said the attacks broke up the affair and that the group "got out of there in a hurry."

Duty Curtains Scream
SOPHIA, W. Va. (AP)—The Rev. Arlie Mitchell, pastor of the Friendship Baptist Church and a volunteer fireman, said he was right in the middle of a sermon when the fire alarm sounded.

"I just had to go," he said, "so I motioned to one of the elders to take over in my place, and I quietly stole away."

Adlai Claims Introduction Not His Idea

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Adlai Stevenson disclaims any responsibility for criticism of the racial stand of Sen. Estes Kefauver, his rival for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Former Gov. Millard Caldwell of Florida, in introducing Stevenson to an audience at Tallahassee last night, quoted a single paragraph from a newspaper editorial which referred to Kefauver as an "integrationist" and a "sycophant seeking Negro votes."

Stevenson told newsmen later that he did not hear Caldwell quote from the editorial. He said he was seated behind Caldwell and could not make out what he said.

Caldwell, a delegate candidate pledged to the former Illinois governor in Tuesday's presidential preference primary, quoted the Richmond (Va.) News-Leader when he introduced Stevenson to state employees at the Capitol.

"I am not responsible for what Gov. Caldwell said about Sen. Kefauver. I certainly am not responsible for what the Richmond newspaper wrote about him," Stevenson said.

Caldwell's only reference to Kefauver's position on segregation, a burning political issue in north Florida, was the quotation from the newspaper editorial which appeared March 24.

Kefauver in campaign speeches in Florida has termed desegregation the law of the land and said the problems created by mixing the races in public schools must be settled at the local level on the basis of local conditions.

Caldwell urged Florida Democrats to give Stevenson their 28 nominating votes because, he said, he is the only candidate "who can carry the South, and without the South the Democrats can't win."

Caldwell said he didn't "see any profit in choosing a man who cannot be nominated and who cannot be elected."

Later at Lake City, the center of a strongly pro-segregation area, Stevenson repeated his own position that desegregation is now the law but he said it cannot be accomplished overnight and that the problem must be approached "with patience and good will, and without violence or troops."

Stevenson assailed Republican administration with responsibility for a 27 per cent decline in farm prices in the past three years.

Driver Tests May Answer Old Question

The Missouri Highway Patrol thinks they may have found a part answer to that old question as to whether men or women are better drivers.

The scores of the Patrol's High School Drivers Contest indicate that girl drivers can drive their car in a straight line better than boy drivers can.

With the preponderance of violations that are indicated in the investigation of traffic accidents being "on wrong side of road" it may well be a big point in the girls favor that they show more skill in driving in a straight line.

The Patrol's High School Drivers Contest is an annual affair financed by its members. It consists of nine district contests with the boy and girl winner in each district competing in Jefferson City for the state title. A written test of 100 questions is given in which a score of 500 can be made, and five practical driving skill tests are conducted for which a total score of 500 is possible.

The girls produced a higher average score in the straight-line driving skill test, and their average score made in the smooth stopping test tied that made by the boys, but the boys made higher average scores on parallel parking, offset alley and location of wheels and bumper tests.

The score sheet also shows that the girls made higher scores on practical driving than on the written test which is a reversal of the order in which the boys rated. They made higher scores on the written test than on the driving test.

The boy winner amassed 957 points out of a possible 1,000 and the girl winner had 917 points.

Each contestant in the High School Drivers Contest must be enrolled in a Driver Education and Training class to be eligible.

Col. Waggoner Issues Warning to Motorists For Holiday Season

Memorial Day marks the beginning of the summertime vacation travel season on Missouri highways.

The superintendent of Missouri's Highway Patrol, Col. Hugh H. Waggoner issued a dire warning to motorists at the approach of the season when highways should lead to days of fun and relaxation.

Said Waggoner, "With the shameful record of deaths we have recorded so far this year, we can predict only the most ghastly exhibition of mass murder yet to be witnessed on our streets and highways for the vacation season. In the first 4 1/2 months of this year when traffic accidents should be at the lowest ebb, our traffic record shows an increase of more than 75 deaths over the same period last year."

Col. Waggoner warned that members of the Patrol would be out in force and be using every available method to catch the careless and reckless drivers over the Memorial Day holiday period. Enforcement through arrests is the hard way to maintain safety on our highways. The colonel said, "It is hardly conceivable that human beings can be so intent upon destruction of themselves that officers must work overtime to save them from their folly."

The Patrol head said that over the Memorial Day holiday last year, 241 rural accidents were recorded in which 18 were killed and 223 injured.

Col. Waggoner asked that all persons who are planning trips over the Memorial Day holiday plan to exercise the greatest caution, obey all traffic rules and regulations and let courtesy and good judgment dictate their driving habits.

Byrd Writes Scandal Basis Still Persists

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Byrd (D-Va.) said today he has told President Eisenhower "the elements which breed housing scandals still persist" in the Federal Housing Administration.

He made public a letter to Eisenhower saying reports by the General Accounting Office show "irregularities and inefficiencies" in FHA offices in New York City, Kansas City and Cleveland, and in 22 slum clearance projects in 15 cities. Byrd did not indicate there was evidence of graft.

Byrd also made public letters he has sent to housing boss Albert M. Cole asking for "confirmation or denial" of the GAO reports, and a report on what Cole is doing about them. Cole is administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, parent of the FHA.

Byrd acted as chairman of the Senate-House Committee on Reduction of Nonessential Expenditures. He also made public routine replies from the White House and Cole acknowledging his letters and promising fuller replies later. There was no other comment from them.

"While the four reports are directed to the administration of only a small portion of the vast federal housing programs," Byrd wrote Eisenhower in a letter dated May 16 "as far as they go they clearly show that the elements which breed housing scandals still persist."

The allusion was to a series of 1954 hearings by the Senate Banking Committee and other groups which produced evidence of irregularities in two main housing programs.

One was home repair loans. There was testimony that many home owners were cheated by fast-talking salesmen whose firms then turned out shoddy work.

The other concerned a postwar apartment program widely called Section 608 projects. A number of project sponsors were disclosed to have obtained FHA-insured mortgages far exceeding their actual costs and pocketing the difference. The government has filed recovery suits in many of these "windfall" cases.

During the 1954 hearings, the administration fired a number of FHA officials.

Big Missouri Slice In Federal Highway Aid

WASHINGTON—The Federal Aid Highway Bill already passed by the House and soon to be taken up by the Senate will have a big impact on the highway progress in Missouri. Increased federal aid for the 24,141 miles of road in the state already receiving some federal funds would permit the state to concentrate more of its resources on other roads in the state. Of course, the state would still match some of the federal funds spent.

The American Automobile Association estimates that federal funds for interstate highways within Missouri will be $638,002,000 for the period from 1957 to 1969. It also estimates that federal aid for primary, secondary and urban roads within the state would be $20,399,000 for fiscal 1957; $20,725,000 for fiscal 1958; and $21,416,000 for 1959.

Missouri Farm Debt Estimate 450 Million

WASHINGTON—As a result of declining income, farm debt has been climbing.

That explains the 13 bills to liberalize farm credit now being considered by a Senate agriculture subcommittee.

Some objectives of the various bills are to provide loans for "disaster and low production areas," provide seed and feed during emergency periods, extend federal authority for refinancing existing loans, and permit loans to farmers with jobs off the farm. One proposal would increase from $15 to $50 million the ceiling on emergency loans. These and other provisions may be combined into two or three bills.

Farm credit is not the entire or best answer to the farm problem, the committee admits, but a better line of credit could mean the difference between forced sales and holding for many farm families now.

In Missouri debts owed by farmers are estimated as over $450,000,000.

Phillips Tells Optimist Club Of Scouting

C. A. Phillips, district chairman of the Boy Scouts, was the speaker at Optimist Club Tuesday noon at Bothwell Hotel.

Boy Scouts are from 11 years old and on up, Phillips said, with eight to 11 years being Cub Scouts. Scouting, he went on to explain, belongs to the sponsoring institution of the institution is responsibility of the institution to appoint a troop committee and then get a manager known as the Scoutmaster. The Scoutmaster must like boys and the outdoors. When the troop is organized, basically it becomes part of the council because it cannot be just to itself but must be friendly with other Scout troops, and all must function unselfishly.

Phillips then introduced two Boy Scouts, Harry Steele and Jimmy Mehl, who on Thursday, May 24, at 8 p.m. will receive their Eagle Scout badges at the Court of Honor at Sacred Heart gymnasium. These two boys in full uniform then explained each of the emblems they wore, including the church award which is open to all Boy Scouts through their church. Each church has a rigid set of rules to which each boy must comply to receive this award.

The boy at 11, said Phillips, comes to the Scout troop to have fun but after he repeats the Scout oath again and again it becomes part of him. When men start in Scouting, he went on to say, very often they try to change it and put their own ideas into it, but it doesn't work. The man who wrote the book on Scouting, the speaker said, knew what he was doing.

Paul Selken, one of the outstanding dairymen of Pettis County, made a talk on Dairy Month, which is June. He stated that there are 1,000 farmers in Pettis County who sell milk, and the dairy business in this county is a $1,250,000-a-year industry. He told of Dairy Day which will be June 9 and of the activities planned for the day. There was a time when it was almost as if a fence had been built between the city and the rural district, he said, but that has all vanished and both are working for better relationships. The Dairy Festival, Selken believes, is one of the best ways to bring the people together.

The meeting was presided over by Charles Hurr, with Ira DeJarnette as program chairman. Invocation was by the Rev. Robert Reinhart. Charles Hanna led the singing, with Miss Lillian Fox at the piano.

Whealen Describes Need for Realistic Unemployment Action

ST. LOUIS, (AP) — Joseph M. Whealen, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, says a new program to provide realistic unemployment benefits for those who are unwillingly made idle should be enacted in the next session of the Legislature.

"Unemployment benefits, which do not cost the taxpayers one cent, must be increased," he said in a speech last night. "Recent Democratic governors have vetoed bills calling for increases, even though Missouri is 'on the bottom of the list.'"

He said "Missouri's archaic program permits a maximum of $25 a week in unemployment benefits, regardless of the size of the family."

Whealen proposed a plan increasing the maximum to $38 for the wage earner, with a sliding scale covering dependents providing a maximum of $40.25 a week.

An estimated 80 to 100 K.U. men crashed the Alpha Chi Omega house early Tuesday morning and rampaged for an hour.

33-Year-Old Man Gets 10-Year Sentence For Mother's Murder

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Roy P. Archer, 33-year-old maintenance man, was sentenced today to 10 years in the Missouri Penitentiary after pleading guilty of second degree murder in the Feb. 12 shooting of his mother, Mrs. Adena Mae Loomis.

Sentencing came in the suburban Clayton Circuit Court of Judge Michael J. Carroll. Archer was scheduled to go on trial today on a first-degree murder charge but the charge was reduced when the defendant agreed to plead guilty.

Archer, father of three children, shot his mother during a quarrel with her and his stepfather at a tourist court at Times Beach, Mo., where the Loomises lived. The quarrel concerned a loan of $90 Mrs. Loomis made to Archer. Archer also lived at Times Beach.

New, vertical Venetian blinds make for more flexible living in a small apartment. Out of the way in the daytime, they partition a room in the evening. Man of the house can study or work while young homemaker gets her needed rest.

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

To many happy newlyweds, living in close quarters is no hardship. A one-room apartment often seems as desirable as a mansion—except for one thing. When several major household activities must share one area, the lack of privacy is inconvenient and, at times, disrupting to a smooth home life.

Your husband, for example, may need to keep the lights burning late to work or study but you need sleep to be fresh for the morning. And, speaking from my own years in small apartments, an open view of kitchen clutter after dinner can be depressing to guests and hosts alike.

Before you tackle the problem, consider your needs, the size of the area, how long you expect to be in the apartment and, of course, what you can afford to spend.

If you're going to be living in close quarters for any length of time, screening off certain areas may well be worth the trouble and expense.

If solid-panel screens would impede the free circulation of air in warm weather and cut off too much light, consider adjustable, louvered screens. Or make such screens from Venetian blinds, suspended in wood frames.

This type of screening has a solid architectural look to it and is freely adjustable to air and light requirements. Two or three wood frames, hinged together and resting firmly on the floor, make the opening into which you install ordinary Venetian blinds in the color of your choice. I'd anchor the blinds at the bottom as well as the top to keep them from flapping.

This type of free-standing screen can be easily cleaned with a vacuum cleaner and such placement makes better sense to me than hanging a super-sized blind across the face of a kitchen-in-a-wall.

Vertical Venetian blinds also offer new and versatile partitioning of close quarters. When hung partially or completely across one end of a room, they can be kept open and out of the way by day. Closed by night, they shut out direct rays of the light but allow the air to circulate freely.

But you have other resources at your command, too. Skillful furniture arrangement can help you to segregate work areas. For example, a decorator friend of mine showed me this simple trick for cutting off a view of the corner kitchenette:

He placed one of two studio couches at right angles to the wall with its back toward the cooking center. Across the back of the couch, two chests were pushed together with storage drawers facing toward the kitchen. Chest tops provided extra serving and tacking pace at party time.

The other studio couch is against the wall with corner table at one end. Separate snack tables pushed together in front of both couches provide the space for dinner service. The dinner party cooking clutter is there, all right, but no one faces toward it.

Another device I'd look into if I wanted to divert the eye from a study corner is the adjustable pole that's held in place on floor and ceiling by pressure. Three or four of these, wound around with real or imitation vines from a floor planter, give an air of seclusion to a corner and are decorative as well.

A NEW KIND OF BEER FOR AMERICA'S NEW WAY OF LIVING

The idea for it came from Bavaria: Why not a bright, refreshing beer like they drink in that land of sports and festivals and fun? And so it's here—made by America's leading brewer. A beer as clear and bright as a day in the Alps, as refreshing as mountain air. A beer that leaves your taste fresh . . . is light on the tongue. A beer that's made to order for bowling, bridge, do-it-yourself activities, "come-on-over" entertaining . . . Busch Bavarian.

Two Kinds Of Squirrel-Heads

Well, we see by the morning papers that a general who doesn't plan his battles properly is a "squirrel-head."

No less than Harry Truman says that about the Battle of Salerno. There'll never be any quiet on the western front so long as men like Harry carry on post mortems during trips abroad.

But to bring the Truman expression a little closer to home than Italy, we'd like to dub as squirrel-heads those motorists who defy Sedalia's traffic signs and endanger the lives and property of others by their careless driving. We mean those who deliberately ignore the rules of the road, who stubbornly resist warnings. Of course accidents will happen even to the best of drivers under extreme circumstances. It is unfortunate they have to pay a penalty sometimes but the fact that they do emphasizes the program of enforcement which is already lessening the traffic accidents in Sedalia.

Signs and signals are commonly accepted devices to keep motorists out of trouble. Those who have made motor trips about the country can recount many interesting experiences when it comes to their personal interpretation of the meaning of traffic signs. Signs beaten up or rusty are a good indication there's not enforcement of speed laws in that community.

A bright sign large enough to attract a driver's attention slows the traffic down. Tourists will agree, too, that a fair-sized sign at the city limits which reads: "Traffic Laws Strictly Enforced," is considerably more meaningful than just a radar sign.

For the benefit of tourists passing through Sedalia on Highways 65 and 50 the radar sign ought to be supplemented with signs reading "Traffic Laws Strictly Enforced." That's a double warning not only to those passing through but visitors to our community.

If motorists pass such a double warning and continue to disregard the speed signs then they can scarcely advertise Sedalia as a town setting up and maintaining a speed trap, a particularly repulsive designation.

"Slow Down, Please, Sedalia Speed Laws Strictly Enforced."

Let's have some signs like that at highway entrances to our city. Only the squirrel-heads would ignore such a polite warning.

Washington Merry-Go-Round—

Demos Throw Wrench Into Own Machine

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — The Democratic National Committee, already harassed by a threadbare treasury and bleak chances in November, has deliberately thrown a monkey-wrench into its own machinery.

Neal Roach, who was supposed to arrange for the fast-approaching national convention at Chicago, has just resigned in a personal row with Chairman Paul Butler.

Not only has this thrown plans for the Chicago convention out of gear, but it may result in a drastic reshuffle of the Democratic National Committee, possibly even the exit of Butler.

The situation is so serious that ex-President Truman sent a page-and-a-half cable from Europe protesting the resignation of Roach. Leslie Biffle, another party stalwart, is also blazing mad at Butler for letting Roach resign; while Col. Jake Arvey, leader of Democratic forces in Chicago, is irked at Butler for various reasons.

The funny thing is that the crisis occurred over a lady — Miss Frances Spivey, Roach's secretary.

Butler would not permit Miss Spivey to go to Chicago to work with Roach, and Roach refused to work without her.

He pointed out that organizing a national convention is a back-breaking job that requires personnel familiar with who-is-who in the Democratic party. He couldn't, said Roach, do the job with a secretary hired in Chicago who didn't know the score. Miss Spivey has handled other conventions, worked long hours in preparing for them.

But Chairman Butler said no.

It's now the chairman's next move. He has to get someone out to Chicago to start organizing for what will be one of the most important conventions in Democratic history — and he has to do it quick.

Mr. Klades waited

The regular stenographer scheduled to transcribe the toasts of President Eisenhower and President Sukarno of Indonesia got sick at the last minute, so hurried phone calls were made to recruit a substitute.

Mrs. Alice Klades of Alexandria, Va., finally obliged, though protesting that she should not leave a sinkful of dishes, a hungry husband, and two sleepy children.

"You can get back to your husband by 9 p. m.," reassured officials of the Indonesian embassy.

Looking down from the balcony of the Mayflower Hotel at President Eisenhower and President Sukarno, she found work both prolonged and complicated. First, the toasts turned out to be full-dress, though impromptu speeches. She had to take down every word, then transcribe the record afterward.

"My husband will never believe this," Mrs. Klades kept saying, half-aloud, as the clock ticked past 9 p. m., then 10 p. m., then 11 p. m.

"My husband will never believe this," she repeated as the clock reached midnight and she thought of that sinkful of dishes and the hungry, if not irate, Mr. Klades.

Finally the Indonesian staff autographed the dinner menu to show where she was, gave her a bottle of champagne, and at 1 a. m. the obliging Mrs. Klades went back to the sinkful of dishes. Mr. Klades did believe her.

Chancing Congressman

One of the most interesting figures in Congress

Guest Editorial—

THE HILLSBORO (O.) NEWS-HERALD: Do it Yourself. We have been reading some statistics on injuries suffered by people who are do-it-yourself fans. Last year some 7,000,000 persons were injured in the nation, chiefly as a result of attempting to do their own home repairs.

Now here's what they were doing when calamity caught up with them: 100,000 hurt while doing their own carpentry repair; another 100,000 fell, were cut or otherwise injured while replacing broken window panes in their homes and more than 16,000 met disaster while installing television antennas.

We mention this because it's spring house cleaning time. If you're to scamper around your roof, climb up ladders and generally take your life in your hands, just be careful, will ya? ... and next when we're laid up in the hospital with a broken leg 12 people will come waving this piece under our own nose.

who has wielded power, both good and bad, over the schools, the libraries, and the labor laws of the nation, comes up for re-election this week.

He is Congressman Graham Barden, the charming, sometimes crusty Democrat from North Carolina, who as chairman of the Labor and Education Committee was able to block the minimum wage bill for months last year. He did this simply by calling no meetings of his committee.

Congressmen, being human, sometimes change. As they get older they change more. That seems particularly true in the case of Graham Barden.

Some of the most constructive legislation helping human beings bears his name—the La-Follette-Barden Act for the rehabilitation of the blind; the George-Barden Act for vocational training in high schools; and quite recently, the Library Service Act that will provide 27,000,000 rural Americans with the books now available to city dwellers in public libraries.

At one time Barden was a rootin-tootin booster for aid to education; also the most aggressive House defender of the Tennessee Valley Authority. Now he's hanging back on school construction and has completely reversed himself on public power.

Barden has become so crusty and irreconcilable on public power that he actually paid $1,200 out of his own pocket to construct a power line to his new home on the edge of New Bern so he wouldn't have to get current from city-operated public power.

This didn't go down well with the people of New Bern, who have had a city power plant for years. They attribute it not to the fact that Barden is chummy with Louis V. Sutton, president of Carolina Power and Light and spoke at the dedication of the company's new plant at Goldsboro. They just think their congressman is getting cantankerous.

That's why for the first time in years he has real opposition in the Democratic primary. Running against him is live-wire 33-year-old James O. Simpkins, who got the local Jaycee Man-of-the-Year award and whose Jaycee vehicle safety-check program won national awards from Look Magazine and the National Safety Council.

Note — Barden will probably win out in the final balloting, but the competition is such that he has sent Kennedy Ward and Fred Hussey, both paid by the taxpayers to work on the Labor Committee in Washington, back to New Bern to work on his political campaign.

Blow to Ill-Wishers

American citizens throughout the country welcome the fresh news that President Eisenhower is keeping his health.

The key fact brought out by his recent full checkup, naturally, is that his heart is "well healed" from the September, 1955, attack even though he has been back in harness since this January.

But it is good to know, too, that by all the other standard measures he is at 65 an extraordinarily well man. His blood pressure is good, so are his lungs and all the rest of his body.

None of this is likely to mean any change in his plan to conduct a restricted campaign for re-election this fall.

The newest examination does tend, however, to reduce somewhat more those lingering fears among Republicans, and lingering hopes among some Democrats, that despite all that has been said up to now the President might feel compelled to withdraw from the race before nominating time.

That prospect would seem to have been almost obliterated by the tests at Walter Reed Hospital.

Thought for Today—

But call to remembrance the former days, in which, after ye were illuminated, ye endured a great fight of afflictions.

—Hebrews 10:32.

Be still, sad heart, and cease repining. Behind the clouds the sun is shining; Thy fate is the common fate of all; Into each life some rain must fall. Some days must be dark and dreary.

Dulles Has Double View of Russians

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—If you sometimes get confused trying to follow Secretary of State Dulles on the Russians, it's because he seems to have two separate ideas about them although not necessarily at the same time.

On what must be his sunny days he sees the Russians changing their ways because of their own weakness and Western pressure. On cloudier days he looks upon the new Soviet policies as a grave danger.

He has expressed a double worry of what might happen if there was a general acceptance of the idea that the Russians were mending their ways and concern about war was gone: (A) that the Western alliances might break up and (B) that Congress might be reluctant to vote as much money for the foreign aid program as the Eisenhower administration thinks necessary.

Last May 25 he said: "There are within the free nations some who are tempted by this prospect (the idea the Russians are changing for the better) and they look toward the United States to see how we interpret the recent Soviet gestures."

"If we seem to regard them as demonstrating a basic change of Soviet attitude and as indicating that the danger is over, they will hastily follow in that way. In that event much of the solidarity in strength which has been built over the past year would quickly disintegrate."

Some Personal Comments By An Editor From India

By Esther Van Wagoner Tufty

Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The editor-owner of the largest daily newspaper in southern India the other day came into the office of our bureau.

Mr. R. Adityan is a friend of my son, Hal, who is Information Officer for the United States Information Service in Madras, India.

The tall very dark newspaper man from India, who had been educated in England, opened the conversation saying, "Your son urged me to speak to you with great frankness and you would be discreet in what you published."

After assurances I would not fail my son, I asked him these questions:

Why are you here?

"I have never seen the United States and how can I write about this country if I don't see for myself how the plain people live." His is not an official visit.

What have you discovered?

"My people have no idea that the standard of living is so high for the American working man. That he has lots of shoes and an automobile. It would be very wise if more workers came to India because our people do not believe everyone in the United States enjoys what only the rich have in India." Walter Reuther made a big hit, but "he was too big a labor man."

Why did Bulganin and Khrushchev get such a rousing welcome from the masses when they visited India?

"Not because the Indians believe in Communism but they think the Communist leaders are workers themselves and that in USSR the workers are running things."

Why did you believe the Communist peace-talk?

"That is the difference between us, because we honestly are convinced neither China nor Russia will attack us. And we can handle

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D.D.
Crossword puzzles contain some very strange letter combinations which make up words found in some dictionary. At least the lexicon gives definitions for these words which must be used by some people on occasions.

If you work enough of these puzzles, you become familiar with some of these words but you seldom use them in conversation. The reason you do not is that they are unfamiliar to other people. Even if we heard them once in a while we should refrain from introducing them into conversation.

Most of us do not have large enough vocabularies to adequately express our every thought, but we have learned to keep our conversations simple.

The serious problem we face about words is not one of familiarizing ourselves with crossword puzzle oddities. We need to use words which express our thoughts clearly. We must avoid misunderstandings.

We must learn to be forceful in our conversation so that we do not fall into the error of becoming "wishy washy." Men must stand for something and not turn aside from their convictions.

Lack of conviction and lack of clear expression have caused as much grief and torment in the world as sin itself.

Think clearly. Speak concisely. Use understandable words without double meanings. Believe in what you say.

any Communist movement within our own country."

How can you say India is neutral when you do not stay neutral on world issues? For example you favor recognizing Red China in the UN.

"We are not neutral, just against joining military alignment with any country or group of countries."

If you were attacked by the Communists are you not depending on the United States and other free countries to come to your rescue?

"No, because we remember that you let Great Britain fight the last war alone for three years until you were attacked at Pearl Harbor."

The editor from Madras was anxious to see "a real American home" and so I took him home for dinner. A Hindu, my son had warned me, does not eat meat, fish or drink anything alcoholic and so planning a dinner was difficult. But he relished the baked potatoes, scalloped corn, fruit salad and Angelfood cake with ice cream. Not only did he take a second helping but wanted to know how it all was prepared! He learned about food and I learned something about India.

"WHAT ARE THOSE, Daddy?" questioned a small boy as the father was putting lime around his potatoes and trying to take care of the plants that were nipped by the frost.

"These are white Irish potatoes," replied the father as he continued to spread the white powder-like stuff over the ground.

After awhile he began putting out some other plants and the little boy was still looking on.

"What are those, Daddy?" he asked.

"These," his father told him, "are sweet potatoes."

The youngster left him and went into the house. A few minutes later he came out with the sugar bowl.

"Now why did you bring that sugar bowl out here?" asked the dad.

"Well," answered the helpful youngster, "you put the white stuff around the Irish potatoes to make them white, so I thought you'd need the sugar for the sweet potatoes to make them sweet."

A GROUP of young women feeling a little remorse because their conversations seemed of the gossip nature decided to do something about it. They bought a bank and each time one of them said something about somebody, she had to put a dime in the bank.

It was a great idea, a very charitable one, but it didn't seem to last very long—not long enough to even get a dime in the bank. There were two reasons, one it looked like it was going to be a pretty expensive project and the other — well — the conversations were very dull, it was much more fun to talk about people.—H.L.

Virtues of South's Claims To Fame Are Still Mystery

By HAL BOYLE
CONNLEY'S CREEK, N. C. (AP)—Two of the Southland's greatest claims to fame are grits and Southern womanhood.

The exact virtues of each remain something of a mystery to the rest of the country, so on a trip here I decided to find out the answers to these puzzlers as my special public service for 1956.

Now that my researches are over, I'm not sure whether I'm any less confused than when I began.

Let's take grits first. Like most people I had assumed you mined grits, just as you do salt or coal. Well, it turns out that isn't true at all. No one knows just how that old myth got started.

"Grits come from corn," explained my host at breakfast one morning. "They're just hominy ground up and cooked. There just ain't any food better than country ham, red-eye gravy and good old grits. Have some."

He pushed over a plate. I gingerly spooned up some white grits in which swam some golden butter.

"Some damfool Yankees claim grits taste like library paste," said my host, genially. "What do you think?"

"Why that's ridiculous," I replied.

My host looked so pleased that I didn't have the heart to add that the real difference is — library paste tastes colder than grits. Grits, to me, didn't taste like anything except a mouthful of lukewarm cotton.

"You have to be born to 'em to really appreciate grits," continued my host.

That, I gather is the real secret. Personally, I'm afraid I was born 45 years too late.

Now about Southern womanhood. What makes it so extra special?

"We have the prettiest girls in the world," explained one man I asked. "The farther South you go the prettier they get. That is, they do until you reach Atlanta. Below Atlanta the quality thins out some."

That didn't seem to be the whole answer. So I asked two young ladies—Mary and Margie—they insisted I not use their last names—what they thought was the difference between Northern and Southern girls.

"There is a coldness about Northern girls," said Mary, who is married. "They aren't as warm or talkative when you meet them. They are more aloof."

"Yes," said Margie, who is single. "And Northern girls are surer of themselves. They know exactly what they want. They have definite opinions on everything. And they know how to chase a man. My, I wouldn't know even how to begin."

Mary arched her eyebrows at this as she glanced over at Margie, but said nothing.

"Southern girls are much less aggressive," continued Margie. "Our menfolks don't like us to speak out too much. You want to know what Northern girls have most that Southern girls would like to have? Well — men and money. And some of them are our men. There's a shortage of men in the South. Too many of them grow up and go North."

"But aren't Southern girls better at cooking and sewing?" I inquired.

"I can't sew or make my own dresses, but I can cook some things," Margie said.

"What?"

"Darn it," said Margie, blushing. "Did you have to ask that?"

One thing both Mary and Margie agreed on—that Southern girls are more romantic, and more loyal to their men.

Later, still unsatisfied that I had solved the secret of Southern womanhood's charm, I put the question to an elderly Southerner. "First, let me close the door," he said. Then, sure he couldn't be overheard, he said:

"Son, I did a lot of traveling as a young man. The only difference between courting a Southern and a Northern girl is that the Southern girl can chase you hard-er without your even knowing she's after you."

"There isn't any real difference in 'em after you marry except this: A Southern girl bawls you out in a softer voice. But, as she speaks slower, it takes her longer to get through."

"The one thing you can be sure of is this: Whether you marry a Northern or a Southern girl you'll find each has a long memory of what a man does wrong."

"But if you quote me on this I'll denounce you as a liar. I don't want to be tarred and feathered and run out of town."

Everybody clear on Southern womanhood?

why Ancient Age can say:

"IF YOU CAN FIND A BETTER BOURBON ...BUY IT!"

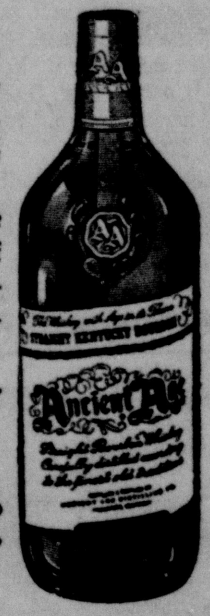

All we distill is Kentucky straight bourbon.

We know that bourbon of the finest quality requires choice grains. That's all we use. We know it calls for the greatest skill in distilling. The men who guide the making of Ancient Age are the most experienced in the industry. And it takes lots of time. That's why we wait six full years for careful aging to bring the quality ingredients to their peak of maturity.

And to safeguard the uniform quality of Ancient Age, we distill it at one place only... at the Ancient Age distillery in Frankfort, Kentucky... the heart of the bourbon country.

Nothing has been spared to make Ancient Age the greatest bourbon of them all. We invite you to try it tonight. After one taste, you'll understand why we can make the challenge: "If you can find a better bourbon... buy it!"

With Modern Floor Coverings Each Room Can Have Different Fashionable Surface

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

Angels would adore to tread on today's floor coverings — covered with gold flecks, soft as a kitten's ear, noiseless as a cloud.

These days you just don't get fond of one floor covering and do your entire house in it. You experiment with a different floor surface in every room for a fashionable effect, if you like.

Take that entrance hall. If it is small you can make it look larger by a cleverly laid bold directional pattern in rubber tile. It is easily cut into custom designs so that a choice of designs might be had to perform all sorts of optical illusions.

If you prefer linoleum, you might enjoy one of the elegant new designs such as one flecked with gold chips available in a handsome pattern of giant black and cocoa squares. Lovely with wrought iron furniture.

One of the oldest materials, ceramic tile, has gone too from kitchen and bathroom into the living area of the home. Paul McCobb, well-known designer, uses it in his own apartment for entrance hall, foyer and dining room. John Wisner uses leaf green, sapphire blue and pale yellow tiles in broad stripes in a contemporary living room.

Plastic and asphalt tiles offer interesting effects for floors. The newest idea is a plastic cork tile that is smart in den or entrance hall, music or sun room.

Carpet manufacturers have not been asleep, however. Warm and glowing colors are achieved in wool, rayon, nylon, cotton or combinations of those fibers. They have managed to foil the L or U-shaped room too, in many instances, with tufted seamless carpet made to the exact measure of the floor. Although custom ordered it is less expensive in the long run because you pay only for what you use. Wool may be dyed to match any color sample.

Started Career in 1906—

Miss Ora L. Stephens Will End 50 Years in Teaching Profession

When school is out this year Miss Ora L. Stephens, 926 South Kentucky, will close the door behind her on a long and useful career in the teaching profession.

It was in 1906 that she began teaching in a little rural school, proud and happy that she had a school, but a bit timid at the thought of such an undertaking. This had been a dream since childhood. She always liked to play school, and, of course, be the teacher. Nursing had appealed to her, too, but her love for her teachers and her desire to be classed among them was too deep. Of her beloved work she says, "The pleasure and satisfaction I have derived from the profession have paid me in full for my long stay." There have been drawbacks, she admits, but if she had her life to live over again, she would definitely follow a teaching career.

All three members of the school board were there to greet her on the morning of that first day and to assure her they were with her even to corporal punishment, if necessary. There were three or four in the school who would give her trouble if she would let them, but she managed to get them under control right from the first. For that first year she received the big sum of $265 for the entire year.

Miss Stephens was born near Deepwater and her parents were both from early settlers in that community. Her father's family was from Kentucky where her grandfather had slaves. When they were given their freedom some of them did not want to leave him. His old home stands as a landmark today in Kentucky. After coming to Missouri he helped to haul the logs from Booneville to build the schoolhouse where her father, and other children of the district, attended three months of school a year. Miss Stephens, herself, later attended the little school for a short time. Her mother's family came from Illinois.

Having relatives near Sedalia, Miss Stephens had visited here many times. She liked the town and its people, so in 1922 she came here to teach and has been here ever since.

In teaching she wanted a flexible daily schedule, one that she could change to suit herself and the need of the class. If she found they were particularly interested in one subject on a certain day, she let them continue on with that while they seemed to be in the mood for it. She liked to use spelling words to teach writing. Writing and spelling are essential phases of English and she believes they should be correlated whenever possible, together with story-writing, punctuation, and so on. She believes, too, that the teacher should find the reading level of the child and then provide material adapted to his ability. Remedial work in all subjects is necessary, Miss Stephens thinks, because practice makes perfect and to correct a child's mistakes, show him the right way and permit him to do it over.

Throughout her teaching years she has memories of cute things children she has taught have done and said. She remembers with a smile, the definition a little third grader gave of a comma. "A comma," said the youngster, "is a period with a tail on it." And then there was the fourth grader she reprimanded for copying from another child's paper. "Miss Stephens," the fourth grader explained, "my eyes really get around."

When she was teaching in high school three boys asked her to help them after school to erect a telegraph set. Nothing could have pleased her more and so she helped. When they had completed their sending set she urged them to go ahead and set up their receiving set and she told them they could use another room to have one part in. They made it and were thrilled. The next thing they were wishing they had a radio and they got consent to use the one in the office. The next thing the father of one of them heard was a queer disturbance in connection with his work. They had put out an SOS call which, of course, Miss Stephens never dreamed they would do. It just didn't make much difference what age children she taught, Ora Stephens enjoyed her pupils. She loved to study their traits and behavior. People fascinated her and especially children. This year she has had the little second graders at Whittier School, where she has been teaching for the past 14 years.

One summer she took her 82-year-old grandmother to Colorado. The grandmother had once lost a daughter there with tuberculosis. Miss Stephens thought they might stay there, so she took work at Boulder University. Wanting to go on trips to see the country, the subjects she picked were ornithology, local flora and physical geography. In studying the birds, the flowers and the soil, she increased her love for nature so much that she began to take field trips to identify birds, flowers, trees and insects, and is now an authority on these things. She likes to grow house plants, too. Then there is her church, the First Baptist, and here again were more children, often different children from those she taught in school. They loved her as a Sunday School teacher, one little girl, now grown, said recently in speaking about her childhood Sunday School teachers. Miss Stephens enjoys her church circle, too, so there aren't going to be any lost or lonely hours because she is retiring. She has been weaving in those little extra golden threads that make the pattern of life bright all the way along.

Glancing back over the years she is proud of the success in life her pupils have made and is particularly pleased that many of them are now teachers themselves, some even professors in universities. "I like to guide those suited to the profession into teaching," she said.

Six Japanese Killed By Artillery Shell

KURE, Japan (AP)—Six Japanese fishermen were killed last night at Yoko Shima, near here, by the explosion of an artillery shell they had fished out of the sea. Police said some 200 Japanese fishing boats have been illegally salvaging live shells which British Commonwealth forces dumped in the sea near Yoko Shima.

Your Most Important Right

Now that the bandstand has been painted, and the park re-landscaped, we have about the nicest village green in the county.

And it's all because, at the last town election, folks got out and voted—85 per cent of them! That way, they passed the amendment calling for park improvements—over those opposing it.

Reminds you again how important the right to vote is in this country. And it's a right we can retain only by exercising it!... like all the other individual liberties—from freedom to enjoy a glass of beer or ale, to a woman's right to vote along with men.

Folks can thank themselves that on summer evenings they'll be able to listen to band concerts in a well-kept park... enjoying a bottle of beer or soda pop (whichever they prefer). Because from where I sit, that's a freedom they've earned by exercising a still more important freedom: Voting!

Athletics Discover Big Stick In Little Package--Bill Dey

Little Bill Dey, the only left-handed swinging stickler for the Sedalia Athletics, was putting on a real hitting exhibition for a group of local fans at a recent practice.

"Say, that tiny feller smacks the ole potato harder than any other hitter of comparable size in these parts," one of the town's baseball oldtimers commented after Dey stroked a batting practice pitch over the right field barrier. And anyone who has seen him at the plate will agree that he's as smooth with the bat as any hitter around.

Although size is usually an asset

Athletics Will Face Top Kansas City Club Here Sunday Afternoon

A mistake in game scheduling has forced a change in the starting time of the Sedalia Athletics' Sunday game with the United Brooms squad of Kansas City, Kan.

Originally slated as an under-the-lights affair, the game has been retimed and will get under way at 2 p.m. Sunday at Liberty Park.

United Brooms, defending champions of Kansas City semi-pro baseball, has one of the outstanding clubs in the area. Eleven members of their 15-man squad have had professional experience.

to good ball players, lack of it isn't a handicap to the 21-year-old left fielder. In baseball a smaller player often is forced to show a bit more ability than his larger competitor. However a small man, equipped with the game's vital tools, can stand in with the best talent. Dey is excellent proof of that widely shared opinion.

Sometimes fooled by a pitch, the sharp-eyed lefty seldom whiffs. Despite his ability to hit the long drive, Dey is best known for his success as a poke hitter. In last Sunday's game against Chestnut Inn of Kansas City, Dey came to bat with the bases filled. The Kansas City outfield shifted toward right field and Dey proceeded to drive in three important tallies

Coach Makes Appeal For $20,000 More Money for Athletics

DENVER (U)—Football Coach Dal Ward has appealed to Colorado University supporters for $20,000 annually to provide an additional 20 athletic scholarships. "We need your help if we are to compete with other schools in the Big Seven," Ward told a group of 50 he invited to a dinner meeting last night.

Harry Carlson, dean of men and athletic director, said the drive for funds was within the rules of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. (NCAA) and the Big Seven Conference.

"It has the approval of the university and my office," Carlson said.

The university now provides 80 scholarships for football players. Ward said Morale on the team has been harmed because of "differences in scholarships on our squad."

"I may have to cut down the squad, but every football player will get the same aid within the boundary of conference and NCAA rules."

He told the group the university needs better football players and that it takes money to bring them to the Boulder campus.

Ward also said he intended to "improve coaching. I've backed up and taken another look at our football situation last year, and I've changed my attitude. We're going to change our methods."

Maglie to Stay In Baseball With Dodgers

BROOKLYN (U)—Sal Maglie said today he had made up his mind to quit baseball at the end of the season but all thoughts of retirement vanished with his sale to the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The 39-year-old former Dodger killer joined his new club yesterday. He pitched batting practice a few hours after his arrival and reported his arm felt "better now than it has in three years."

The veteran right-hander, several days late in reporting due to the death of his father in Niagara Falls, N.Y., is scheduled to make his first start in a Brooklyn uniform against his former New York Giant teammates at the Polo Grounds Saturday.

A mainstay of the Giants' pitching staff for years, Sal felt out of place and, at times, useless with the Cleveland Indians, who purchased him last summer from the Giants. He said he feels more at home now that he is back in the National League.

"Al Lopez and the entire Cleveland organization were swell to me," Maglie said. "I have no complaints over the treatment they accorded me. It's just that I

Meadow Gold Tramples Odd Fellows 36-1

The Meadow Gold softball sharpies of the Industrial League pounced on a helpless Odd Fellows lodge team Tuesday night and staged a marathon race around the bases to hang a lopsided 36-1 trouncing on the lodge team. The games are played at Housel Park.

During the process, the Odd Fellows found the ball too hot to handle and were tagged with 16 errors, which permitted many of the runs by the opposition.

Raybourn, on the mound for the Meadow Gold team, hurled a one-hitter. The Odd Fellows tallied their lone run in the third frame. The Meadow Gold heyday was called after five innings because of their big lead.

In the second game of the evening the Jaycees saw similar success in polling an 18-2 win over the Jolly Welders. That contest was also called at the end of five frames.

George Thompson, Jaycees pitcher, allotted the Welders only two hits.

No games are scheduled for tonight at Housel.

The Industrial League will hold a meeting at Jefferson School this evening at 7:30. All managers are requested to be present. All other persons interested are invited to attend.

Thursday night the Hamm's Beer and Griesedieck Beer teams will meet at 7 o'clock, followed by a Moose Club and Meadow Gold tilt at 9 o'clock.

Tuesday's line scores:

IOOF 0 0 1 0 0-1 16
M. Gold 13 4 13 6 x-36 23 1

Countryview Golf Team Second In Inter-City Match

A ten-man golf team of Sedalia's Countryview public course placed second Sunday in the first of three Sedalia-Clinton-Warrensburg inter-city matches planned for the season, on the Clinton course.

Return matches at the Sedalia and Warrensburg courses are to be played in the near future.

On a point system used in scoring the match, Clinton's swingers rolled up a total of 47½ points, with the Sedalians second at 27½ and Warrensburg third with 14½.

Individual 18-hole scores tabulated by the local aggregation were: John Ryan, 70; Al Swihart, 72; Bob Moss, 74; Wesley Murphy, 76; Hughey Johnston, 76; John Hazel, 81; Fred Evans, 81; M. C. Griffith, 82; John Zahring Jr., 83, and Francis Tray, 88.

A total of 116 players have been on the roster of the Cleveland Browns during 10 years in football.

Ban Johnson Opposes Jeff City In Debut

Tonight the Sedalia Ban Johnson team opens the 1956 home season with a game with the Jefferson City B.J. team. Game time will be 8 p.m. The Missouri Pacific Shop Crafts will sponsor this game.

The Shop Craft members have been given tickets and all tickets distributed will be honored at the game.

Manager Russell Gilmore hopes to be back in Sedalia Wednesday evening in time to take over for the opener. He is in St. Louis with the Smith-Cotton Tigers playing in the State High School Tournament.

It will be the first appearance of the B.J.'s in their new uniforms which have been furnished by Cramer and Schrader Construction Co., Jenkins-Greer Motor Co., Sports Center, and Watkins Heating and Plumbing Co.

The local team now has its college players from Warrensburg on the lineup, but the several high school players who are scheduled for the B.J. roster cannot officially become B.J. players until after they have completed their play in the state tournament.

With the combination of the Smith-Cotton players, the players from CMSC, and other boys, the local team should be one of the strongest in the Central Missouri League.

Marv Jensen's Prediction Nearly True

NEW YORK (AP) — Some 15 months ago manager Marv Jensen predicted his middleweight protégé, Gene (Cyclone) Fullmer, would be ready for a title fight by July 1956. He came close to hitting the nail on the head.

"Now I wish I had said May 1956, and that it was Gene instead of Bobo Olson," said Jensen today. "Ray looked to be in fine shape but I think if he had fought Gene, Utah would have had its first world boxing champion."

Fullmer, a sturdy, muscular 23-year-old who has been boxing since he was 8, has neared the threshold of the middleweight throne room. If he can beat Charley Humez, France's European 160-pound king in Madison Square Garden Friday night, he and Jensen will have plenty of money to entice Robinson to defend his crown.

"Robinson wants money and we're prepared to offer him $100,000 if Gene gets by Humez — a tough nut, by the way," said Jensen, a wealthy mink breeder. "Bob Barrett, a uranium magnate from Salt Lake City, will put up the guarantee for a Robinson fight in either Salt Lake City, New York or Los Angeles."

Fullmer, conqueror of Rocky Castellani, Gil Turner and Tiger Jones in his last three fights, is a slight favorite to beat the 28-year-old Frenchman. Humez was ranked No. 2 contender behind Olson and Fullmer is No. 3. Olson got flattened again by Sugar Ray.

Minneapolis Gains On Denver Lead In American Association

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Minneapolis is crawling up on the American Assn.-leading Denver Bears, who are getting cuffed around on the road.

St. Paul belted Denver, 4-1, Tuesday night to deal the Bears their third defeat against two victories on their current road trip.

Minneapolis pulled within 2½ games of the leaders with a 5-3 conquest of Omaha at Minneapolis. Last-place Charleston broke a six-game home losing streak by smacking Louisville, 6-0, for the Senators' first shutout triumph of the season. Indianapolis lost out home to Wichita, 12-3, in a contest cut off after seven innings by rain.

Taylor Phillips, 22, lefthander who was with Milwaukee in spring training, scattered six hits and fanned seven in twirling Wichita to victory over Indianapolis. Wichita pounded four Indianapolis pitchers for 16 hits.

Summerlin to Face Carter in 10-Round Heavyweight Bout

DETROIT (AP) — Johnny Summerlin puts an 11-fight winning streak on the line tonight at Detroit's Olympia when he engages young Harold Carter in a 10-round heavyweight elimination bout.

The 22-year-old Carter, who has had only 21 bouts was rushed in last Friday as a substitute for veteran Bob Satterfield of Chicago who withdrew because he said his elbow hurt. Michigan doctors could find nothing wrong with the elbow, but said there was no point in forcing Satterfield to fight.

Managers of both fighters say this is "the big chance" for the young heavyweights. It will be the first nationally televised (ABC, 8 p.m. CST) bout for each.

For the record, Summerlin has 29 victories, four losses and two draws in 35 fights. Carter has 18 victories, one loss and two draws in 21 fights.

Race Track Open To Trade
LAUREL, Md. (AP) — This year, when there is no racing at Laurel, the clubhouse will be open to trade, civic groups and service organizations. It is 22 miles south of Baltimore.

Rookie Gives KC Pitching Staff a Boost

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Kansas City's battered pitching staff has received some unexpected help from young Troy Herriage, a rookie who found himself after two jittery starts.

Herriage pitched a three-hitter as the Athletics whipped the Washington Senators last night at Kansas City, 6-1, taking advantage of 11 walks issued by four Washington pitchers.

The St. Louis Cardinals received another dividend from General Manager Frank Lane's much-discussed round of trades as Herm Wehmeier pitched a victory over red-hot Pittsburgh last night.

The former Philadelphia right-hander needed help from little Jackie Collum in the seventh but pitched creditable seven-hit ball in the Redbirds' 6-3 victory at Pittsburgh which snapped a three-game Pirate winning streak.

California Youth Makes Second Highest Recorded Pole Vault

RICHMOND, Calif. (AP) — Jim Matjeka, a senior from Sequoia High School at Redwood City, last night made the second highest pole vault ever recorded by a high school boy.

Matjeka vaulted 14 feet ½ inch at the El Cerrito Relays. The high school record is 14 feet 2 inches by Jim Brewer of North Phoenix, Ariz.

Herriage lost his first two starts against Boston and Cleveland and went to the mound with a whopping 12.25 earned run average.

But he ran into trouble only in the second inning when Jim Lemon doubled 410 feet off the fence in right center and scored on Dean Stone's single.

He struck out six and walked five in pulling the A's within a half-game of the Senators in the battle to get out of the American League cellar.

A five-run second inning gave him the cushion he needed. Three runs were forced in by walks and Harry Simpson's double scored two more.

Wehmeier, beaten by bad fielding and Brooklyn in his first start for St. Louis, now is 1-1 as a Redbird. Veteran Murry Dickson is 1-0 with a 3-2 victory over Chicago to his credit and Dick Littlefield, another recent trade acquisition, pitched well although losing 2-0 to New York in his first start. Wehmeier and Dickson were obtained from the Phillies for Harvey Haddix, Ben Flowers and Stu Miller. Only Miller has helped the Phils so far.

Stan Musial's seventh-inning single, his second of the game, drove in what proved to be the winning run. Ken Boyer drove in two runs and Bobby Del Greco and Bill Sarni one each.

Dale Long, big Pirate first baseman, boomed a single double and his 10th home run in four trips, raising his average to .411, highest in the majors.

Tors Would Like to Make Drama Shows

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK (U)—Ivan Tors, who produces a filmed television show called "Science Fiction Theater," would like very much to produce called "Science Fiction Theater," would like very much to produce dramatic shows concerned entirely with the marvels of research. This desire sometimes makes Tors a rather sad man.
"The truth is," he confesses, "that the hokier you get, the more the audience buys it."
That's not only true in television, he hastily adds. A recent film, made with all sorts of government help and blessing presenting a true picture of man's ascent in the sky—and is a box-office failure. At the same time, a real dream piece, concerned with men landing on an outer-space planet, and whipped up out of pure imagination, turns out to be something that everyone wants to see.
Tors has been turning out 39 science fiction pictures a year for TV for two years, now. His treasured gimmick has been to make at the outset of the program a presentation of scientific, medical or electronic research at its current stage of progress and then proceed to weave a fictional story based on the assumption of success in the project.

This has gone down just fine with younger members of the audience, but he has found that what he calls the "30-plus, so-called intelligent people" just don't want to believe these things might happen.
"I did one recently about scientists sending up flares to create artificial sunlight," he continued.

"After that show we had a lot of mail from people calling the whole thing too fantastic. Well, it wasn't fantastic at all. Actually, there's an operation in progress right now—and they are sending up magnesium flares into the ionosphere. Already they are able to sustain light for short periods. It's only a question of time until it will be longer."

Ask $5 Monthly From 100 People—

Small Monthly Donations Would Aid Children's Center Program

Five dollars a month, that a small group of Pettis County children might learn to walk, talk, do a little something for themselves—that is what a group of citizens who comprise the board of directors of the Crippled Children's Center, talked about at a meeting Monday noon at Bothwell Hotel. They have studied the situation carefully and feel that if only 100 people, who can afford to give $5 a month, would do so, they could carry on this great program successfully.

Rekindles Fight Over Old Battles

LONDON (AP)—The World War II Italian battles of Salerno and Anzio blazed anew today, touched off by an old U.S. Army artillery captain who also held his nation's highest office.

Former U.S. President Truman fired the first shot. As plain tourist Harry S. Truman, he looked the Salerno beachhead yesterday and said the bloody battles there and at Anzio were "totally unnecessary and planned by some squirrel-headed general."

"I don't know who it was," he said. "There were a lot easier places that could have been picked."

Lt. Gen. Sir Oliver Leese, who commanded Britain's 8th Army in the Italian campaign, fired back at Truman.

"The man is talking absolute nonsense," he sputtered.

"To land on the most obvious beaches would have been suicidal. Has not ex-President Truman heard of the surprise value of warfare? We chose to land on beaches which would give us that element."

"Field Marshal Lord Alexander was in charge of the operations. To call him 'squirrel-headed' is rubbish. The operation was a very fine one—well planned and well carried out."

Alexander was not available immediately for comment.

In Charleston, S.C., retired Gen. Mark Clark disclaimed any direct responsibility.

"As commander of the 5th Army, whose American and British troops landed at both these places, I received and carried out orders from higher headquarters," said Clark, now president of the Citadel, South Carolina military college.

Two other prominent men involved in the matter held their silence. They were President Eisenhower, Allied supreme commander in the Mediterranean when Salerno was invaded, and Sir Winston Churchill, then Britain's prime minister and the chief advocate of the Anzio landing.

The number of children at the Center varies, as do their needs. Sometimes there are 11 children, sometimes 15; usually there are 15. These are children who cannot go to school, who must have special training and therapy. These are children who even in their teens must be taught to do what other children do naturally in their babyhood.

The Crippled Children's Center started as a project of United Cerebral Palsy, Pettis County Crippled Children's Association and the Polio Foundation and is now incorporated as a separate organization.

Mrs. Virginia Flower, president, conducted the meeting Monday. Others present were James E. Durley, vice-president; A. B. Warren, treasurer; Miss Lois Fricke, secretary; and directors David Robinson, Harold Barrick, William F. Brown and Scott Webber. Board members unable to attend were Mrs. Abe Silverman and John R. Van Dyne.

The Bothwell Hospital board has been interested in this project and has not only given the entire basement of the nurses' home for the training school, but has partitioned space for the physical therapy department in the basement of the main hospital, painted and equipped it with necessary plumbing and electrical connections and is supplying aids such as hydrocollator, moist hot packs, muscle resistance set, progressive exercising set, infra-red ray lamps, muscle stimulator and other items.

Civic clubs of Sedalia are also interested and eager to help. They have furnished all the equipment to set up a modern physical therapy department. The Lions Club supplied a whirlpool bath and has set aside money for other equipment. Kiwanis is providing the multi-wave diathermy and two portable stands, the Shrine Club is giving the ultra-sound machine and the Elks Club has offered to contribute $25 per month to the general fund. For the past seven months the three parent organizations have donated $100 per month each for general operating expenses of the Center.

Several months ago a group of citizens of Sedalia pledged an amount sufficient to underwrite the services of a speech therapist for the Center for two years, but, as yet, a speech therapist has not been secured. However, the Institute of Logopedics of Wichita, Kan., one of the outstanding speech training schools in the United States, has promised to supply a thoroughly competent teacher and has even offered to supervise the department.

The services of Walter Gault, physical therapist, have been secured and he took over his duties May 1. Gault is well qualified as a physical therapist. He trained at the University of Kansas Medical Center, has worked there under the supervision of Dr. Shires and has had experience in the Rehabilitation Center in Kansas City. He has moved his family to Sedalia and resides at 160 South Summer.

Mrs. Rudolph Swope has been operating the Center and will take a two-week course this summer at Purdue University to further her understanding of the problems of the brain injured child.

A basic part of the program is the interest and enthusiasm with which the 46 volunteer workers have in their jobs. They give two or three hours one day a week at the slow, monotonous job of doing things over and over again. But little by little they see improvement in the one youngster they have been assigned to. They talk it over with other women who have the child other days of the week and they are thrilled at each little accomplishment of that child. The entire group was delighted when a little girl who had never spoken a word in her life became excited one day recently and called the name of one of the boys.

It is a heart warming experience. It is something you don't forget, the progress of these little folks who can't do the things other children do, who haven't much future without the patience and help of all of the people at the Crippled Children's Center.

Yes, it costs a lot," said Virginia Flower, "but it is worth every penny of it if just one of those children would be able to make his own way."

Of the Crippled Children's Center here Roy Davidson, state director of the Missouri Crippled Children's Association, said, "While this project is not a spectacular thing to see, it is one of the best jobs of rehabilitation in the state."

Most forgotten in the trousseau is the house slippers. A bride can feel silly tripping through her new home in a brunch coat and high heels. Include a pair of leather slippers to match the gown, a pair of jeweled ballet slippers, or perhaps a pair of mules.

Estes' Tactics Intensified In Final Push

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Top strategists are mapping plans to saturate Florida with radio and TV plugs for Sen. Estes Kefauver in the crucial windup drive of his Florida primary election battle with Adlai E. Stevenson.

The Tennessee Democrat's national campaign manager, F. Joseph Donohue, said today that from tomorrow until Tuesday's balloting, the Kefauver camp is buying 13 spot pitches a day on 40 or 50 Florida radio stations.

Donohue told a reporter he thinks Kefauver's campaign to win the Florida presidential preference primary and its 28 votes at the Democratic National Convention has been picking up power steadily.

Kefauver too said he figures that he is doing better in the next-to-last primary showdown between himself and Stevenson.

The finale comes off in California June 5, with 68 Democratic convention votes for the victor.

The Tennessee senator has been directing his campaign speeches partly toward California as well

Medical Society Head Asks Doctors to Help Reduce Traffic Toll

BOSTON (AP)—Massachusetts doctors were called on by the outgoing president of the Massachusetts Medical Society to help in cutting down the toll of traffic fatalities and injuries.

Dr. Conrad Wesselhoeft told the society's 175th annual meeting as beaming them at Florida audiences.

He did that to some extent yesterday in urging expansion of the social security system and increased assistance to the needy in talks at Fort Lauderdale and Hollywood.

Both Florida and California are meccas for persons who have retired.

In both talks yesterday, Kefauver urged a lowering of the eligibility age for women social security benefit applicants from 65 to 62. He called for full social security payments to the disabled at age 50 in his Hollywood talk.

Stevenson has endorsed these ideas too.

But on assistance to the needy, Kefauver went beyond his rival to recommend legislation "which would raise the present federal ceiling on matching funds for public assistance from $55 to $100 a month."

that in Massachusetts last year there were 172 deaths from polio and 2,370 paralytic cases. In the same year," he added, "there were 569 traffic deaths and 82,488 traffic injuries."

He recommended that a committee of doctors be set up to aid the state motor vehicles department in connection with alcoholic drivers.
